Exporting an entire list of results from CINAHL

https://www.alverno.edu/media/alvernocollege/library/pdfs/exporting.pdf

Run a search in CINAHL.

Use "Page Options" located towards the top of the results page and change "Results per page" to 50.

Use "Share" to select "Results (1-50)", this adds the first 50 results to a folder. You do not need to be signed into a CINAHL account for this to work.

Click the folder icon towards the top of the page.

Click "Save as File".

Check "Remove these items from folder after saving" if there are more than 50 results. Select APA Citation Format and click "Save".

You should now have an A-Z list of the first 50 articles. Repeat this for the next 50 articles and so on if you have a large number of results.

If you are performing multiple database searches and need to identify the duplicates, you can copy and paste the lists into Word or Excel and sort A-Z. Once the results are sorted, you can identify the duplicate titles.
